

Can you create your own Music Festival?

...can you carefully plan a major music festival?

...when lockdown lifts...will audiences rush to YOUR event?

...will you demonstrate the organisational skills required to make this a success?

Shaping the Learning

To fully prepare for your forthcoming Festival, I suggest presenting these Questions in your planning meeting:

- What is your festival called?
- Line up – what bands/artists will you have performing?
- Date - how many days will your festival last? Do you have enough performers to fill this time? Will it last for one evening, a weekend, or an entire week?
- Location – will it be local, or even abroad?
- Accommodation for guests – where will they stay? Will they be camping or staying in nearby hotels?
- Catering – where will your festival-goers eat?
- Tickets – how much will they cost? What will your tickets look like?
- Advertising – eye catching leaflet/poster.
- Why should people come to your festival?

EXT: If you were compering your own festival, what would you say to welcome people?

Can you write your opening script?

My Time

You should prepare an interesting, informative and engaging PowerPoint presentation, advertising your Music Festival.

...Remember to carefully takes into account the suggested questions mentioned in Shaping the Learning.

....You may have questions and considerations which you also want to include.

Have I achieved the aim?

Hopefully, you have been able to use a range of your skills to begin to produce an 'action packed' presentation that will leave your event over-subscribed!

Next Steps:

Will you perform in your own festival as one of your main acts? If so, what will this look like? What can we look forward to?
