

THE ROYAL NAVY

When you join as a rating, you're automatically enrolled in an Intermediate Apprenticeship, which means you'll learn on the job and earn a wage, at the same time as studying for the apprenticeship qualification.

Later in your career you'll also have the opportunity to progress and gain other civilian recognised qualifications, which may include an Advanced or Higher Apprenticeship.

Call: 0345 607 5555

IS RECRUITING

<https://www.royalnavy.mod.uk/careers/role-finder>

Pay and Benefits

- A minimum salary of £15,000, rising to £20,000 after initial training.
- An excellent non-contributory pension scheme – we pay into it for you, so you don't have to sacrifice any salary.
- Six weeks of paid holiday every year – plus public holidays.
- Free medical and dental care.
- Amazing opportunities, including world travel and adventurous training for two weeks every year.
- Free gym and sports, from football to kayaking to kite-surfing.
- Subsidised travel, accommodation and food.

Covid-19

The Naval Service is continuing to recruit and process applications. Contact a Royal Navy career adviser by email or phone if you require any details relating to your situation.

<https://twitter.com/rnjobsuk> @RNJobsUK #NavyJobs

Our apprenticeship schemes

We offer more than 20 apprenticeships across a wide variety of roles. You'll get a competitive salary from day one, travel the world, be empowered to make a difference – and supported to get further, faster.

There are three main schemes; rating roles (Intermediate Apprenticeships), Accelerated Apprenticeships (Fast Track) and the Undergraduate Apprenticeship Scheme (UGAS). So, whether you're a school leaver, have qualifications you want to build on or want to retrain without going back into education, there's a place for you. Interested? Explore them in more detail. <https://www.royalnavy.mod.uk/careers/levels-of-entry/apprenticeships>

Qualifications you'll gain

Start with an Intermediate Apprenticeship and gain specialist, nationally recognised qualifications as you progress.

Work towards improving your academic qualifications from GCSE to degree level, which we'll pay for and give you time to study.

